

Planeta Za

A multifunctional space in Prague's Vršovice district with a large garden, dance floor and screening room for various workshops, conferences, filming, corporate parties and much more

Planeta Za is a DIY cultural space built for the local music community. Opened in 2020, the multi-purpose venue has expanded Ankali, the music club next door that focuses primarily on electronic music. Planeta Za not only functions as a music venue with its own curated program, but also hosts many other events from discussions and screenings to listening nights and markets.
